Final Project Assembly and Conference

CREW Community resilience to extreme weather

Community Resilience to Extreme Weather (CREW)

is an EPSRC-funded research project, established to develop a set of tools for improving the capacity for resilience of local communities to the impacts of future extreme weather events

25th November 2011
at RICS, London
from 09:30am

Venue:
RICS
12 Great George Street
Parliament Square
London
SW1P 3AD

Newcastle University
the University of Greenwich
Cranfield University
University of Glasgow
dmu.ac.uk De Montfort University Leicester
University of Exeter
Coventry University
UCL
SAC
University of Birmingham
UEA University of East Anglia
University of Wolverhampton
Manchester 1824 The University of Manchester
University of Salford A Greater Manchester University

Keynote speakers:
Lord Selborne GBE FRS, Chair of the Partners' Board, LWEC
Roger Street, Technical Director of UKCIP

To reserve your free place:

Registration www.extreme-weather-impacts.net
Contact Dr Stephen Hallett, s.hallett@cranfield.ac.uk

EPSRC Engineering and Physical Sciences Research Council